

Whose Rainbow is it?

I set My rainbow in the cloud, and it shall be for the sign of the covenant between Me and the earth.

“Beginnings” 9:13

Recent events and occurrences have brought to our attention possibilities that now appear unprecedented: of humankind being able to medically engineer both ourselves & world in a manner that would have caused our ancestors to blush with amazement: the thought that modern technology may now change and reorder the way we do things: even the way we think (or . . . machines “think”) so that humankind now appears to be crossing a horizon into a new frontier: a frontier of the Rainbow.

Why, it is absolutely amazing what modern science and surgery (and big pharma) can do to the human body, today. For it must be admitted, that while some have scoffed at the thought of “men menstruating” (or “having a period”)—as the “opposite sex” once did exclusively—Today, that’s considered “old hat” (old fashioned). For now, because of transition surgery we may simply exercise the option of changing our sexual existence: not by merely becoming eunuchs (by removing the male testes)—but by becoming a totally different person, with hormonal changes—especially . . . when these changes are executed early enough in life to allow children to refashion their bodies while still growing and changing —to become something that was formerly impossible.

Let us be ready...

Further, if enough of us were to simply agree that this is a reasonable and suitable way of life, by signing off on the proper pronouns (i.e. hir, ze, them, or whatever—just so long as these altered persons agree they feel good)—then, we will have actually created a whole new civilization (or race?) of individuals. Really! You may have never thought about it, but if we regularly allow, say, male genitals to be removed, while retaining the female ovaries; then with just a little fine tuning of the gay agenda we can still have children born into a civilization that is sustainable—outside of our original “configuration.” (Read that, outside of our original design.)

Wait, wait, WAIT A MINUTE! You may

start to object (after thinking for a moment)—"Are you actually speaking of a whole new civilization of human beings?"

Yes, and more: we are speaking of trans-humans and whatever else may be imagined in our future. Say, why not merge with machines . . . .?

There is just one problem, however, as we go down this road: This pathway of the Rainbow and LGBTQ. . . XZ . . . S (not XY—the male chromosomes, and the "S" of course, is for Satan . . .). Yes, there is just one "little" (???) problem.

Whose rainbow, is it that we're messing with, to begin with? And . . . since we have come this far down the road (leaving all those who to pull the covers over their heads way back there, in the dust . . .). What if, instead of running down a path into a brave new world (Utopia)—we are, instead, on a path similar to the one pursued when human beings first saw the rainbow, in the first place?

Whose rainbow, is it that we are messing with, to begin with?

So, allow me to shift gears here: have you ever heard of Jesus Christ? (If not, please do not be offended when I say that you are most certainly ignorant of the most important Personage in human history. No, do not worry—for in spite of the hysterics of the cancel culture, information about the Christ is readily available (that's His proper title: "Christ" is actually a title, meaning "Messiah" or Deliverer. Thus, it is really more proper to say "Jesus, who is the Christ" —or Jesus: the Messiah). Further, we need not worry about being ignorant on this matter—even if our social monitors have sipped the Kool-Aid while forgetting to inform us of who He is—even some school teachers.

Jesus is so important in world history that His Book (called the Holy Bible) is available virtually everywhere. Of course . . . if you have a smart phone (you do have one, don't you?) —you can get one in a minute, or less. For this book (the Bible) just happens to be the world's #1 best seller, by far (the NY Times does not count the Bible, when posting their "Best Sellers" listing: they simply assume that everyone knows that THERE IS NO BOOK IN THE WORLD that even comes close to out-selling the Bible. NONE. Nada. Not Moa's little Red Book, or even the Quran. Not even close.)

As I was saying, you can get a copy of the Bible for free, on your smart phone, in the app store. You can even get it in different translations, and languages. If you speak Spanish, you can get it in Spanish, or German, or whatever. It (the Holy Bible) is available for you, in your mother tongue. Now where were we?

Oh, yes, the Rainbow. The Bible mentions the rainbow being placed in the sky after . . . the flood. Yes, the Bible tells us that (sh-h-h) God who made us in the first place—really does not celebrate our playing games with the human gene pool, or His original design. In fact, there are those who believe that the Bible’s record of what happened in the antediluvian world (antediluvian: before the Flood) —actually involved fallen angels messing with the human gene pool by (unauthorized) co-habitation and manipulation of the human genome.

We don’t have too much detail about the world that then existed (for rather obvious reasons: the Bible spends most of its messaging on informing us of how God was working to correct the mess that early humanity got us into, in the first chapters of the Book). For the Bible spends a good deal of its time telling of how Jesus the Christ (the Messiah) was sent into our world pay for our sins (sin: that’s falling short of moral perfection). To this day, human society still celebrates (sh-h-h) the real origins of Christmas and Easter: Christmas is when Jesus arrived in our world; Easter is when Christ paid for our sins by dying on a Cross and (sh-h-h) Rising again(!!!) on the third day. As for right-and-wrong (what we normally call “morals”) the Bible spells this out rather succinctly, as well. Ever heard of the Ten Commandments?

As we were discussing: Jesus has forecast (as only a real prophet can, by foretelling the future with accuracy)—that at the end of the age, certain things would happen. One of them is that the world would start to repeat the same mistakes that led up to the flood to begin with. Said Jesus:

<sup>38</sup> For as in the days before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered the ark, <sup>39</sup> and did not know until the flood came and took them all away, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be.

Matthew 24:38-39

IT’S WRITTEN IN THE BIBLE:

We have already mentioned Christmas and Easter (which the prophets of old, foretold) —Jesus also foretold of a Day when He will return in the sky (Matt. 24:30, Mark 13:26, Luke 21:27). This is what Jesus was referring to when speaking of the “coming of the Son of Man” in the quote, above. Jesus (the Son of God – John 3:16) is “the Son of Man” —who came through the virgin Mary, the first time (Matthew 1 & 2, Luke 1 & 2)—and will appear in the sky, when He returns to earth, on that “Day” in the future (but no one knows the date—not even the angels - Matt. 24:36). Now, where were we? Oh, yes, we were about to consider Noah and his big boat (the Ark) with all those animals on it, within the sixth chapter of Genesis. What a Day that was!

So now (after a deep breath), we return to the Flood . . .

<sup>1</sup> Now it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born to them, <sup>2</sup> that the sons of God saw the daughters of men, that they were beautiful; and they took wives for themselves of all whom they chose. <sup>3</sup> And the LORD said, "My Spirit shall not strive with man forever, for he is indeed flesh; yet his days shall be one hundred and twenty years."

Genesis 6:1-3

It is in the very next verse (after the one quoted above) that we catch a glimpse at what was taking place on earth, before God started a countdown to the Flood: but first, notice that it was after the statement about “sons of God” marrying the daughters of men (these “sons,” being the ones who were called angels/demons in Job 1:6)—after which God decided to do something drastic to purge the human race of this problem.

Jesus has forecast . . . at the end of the age, certain things would happen. . . . the world would start to repeat the same mistakes that led up to the flood . . .

<sup>4</sup> There were giants on the earth in those days, and also afterward, when the sons of God came in to the daughters of men and they bore children to them. Those were the mighty men who were of old, men of renown.

Genesis 6:4

This is a problem that existed within the antediluvian world. For the word translated “giants” above, actually refers to “Nephilim” —and is a reference to a hybrid race of beings. So, it seems that the original manipulation of the human gene pool “succeeded” to some degree, only . . . God did not approve, and because of this, He brought judgment upon our world.

Only Noah and his family were saved, at that time.

What has all of this got to do with the gender confusion, of our day?

It is actually part of a much larger and more pernicious “trans-ition” within our society towards following an “anti-Deliverer” (commonly called the Anti-Christ) at the end of the age. However, believe it or not, this transitioning is actually aimed at the true “sons of God” in our day (i.e. Christians —John 1:12) within the church world—who abandon the Bible’s morality for the devil’s, as society slides towards a final conflict between our true Creator (God) and the malicious engineering that will ultimately usher in the Antichrist (in the last book of the Bible, Revelation chapter thirteen).

As the apostle Paul (a prominent writer of the second part of the Bible) notes about that “Day” of final conflict:

<sup>3</sup> Let no one deceive you by any means; for that Day will not come unless the falling away comes first, and the man of sin is revealed, the son of perdition,
<sup>4</sup> who opposes and exalts himself above all that is called God or that is worshiped, . . .

2 Thessalonians 2:3-4

The word translated “falling away” in the above text is apostasia in the Greek: literally, “apostasy” —referring to deserters on the battlefield of life, who once followed God, but who later decide to change sides. And then what happens?

What actually happens to all who agree to go along with the topsy-turvy world of trying to reverse engineer the human existence that God originally designed for us to enjoy? —When someone embraces an age of lawlessness. . . God surrenders all such persons to their willful & confused desires (Romans 1:28). As the apostle Paul continues to explain this “mystery of lawlessness”:

<sup>7</sup> For the mystery of lawlessness is already at work; only He who now restrains will do so until He is taken out of the way.

<sup>8</sup> And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord will consume with the breath of His mouth and destroy with the brightness of His coming.

<sup>9</sup> The coming of the lawless one is according to the working of Satan, with all power, signs, and lying wonders, <sup>10</sup> and with all unrighteous deception among those who perish, because they did not receive the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

2 Thessalonians 2:7-10 [emphasis added]

Such persons refuse to enter God’s Ark of safety. But you (and I) may be saved by firmly placing our trust in the God of the Bible, and asking Him to come into our hearts through His Holy Spirit, as we stay in God’s ~Ark of safety (John 3:16). An extension of this way of escape may be realized by being part of a good, BIBLE BELIEVING church fellowship . . . not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as is the manner of some, but exhorting one another, and so much the more as you see the Day approaching. (Hebrews 10:25).

So, let us live every day with God’s rainbow,
Over our lives!
